

Dr. Metinee Srivatanakul

Metinee Srivatanakul holds a Second Class Honour Bachelor degree in Biochemistry from Chulalongkorn University, Thailand and received Royal Thai government scholarship to pursue Ph.D. in Plant Physiology and Plant Biotechnology at Texas A&M University, USA. She started her career at Department of Agriculture where she gained 10 years of experiences in scientific research as well as policy development. She joined Monsanto as Regulatory Affairs Director, Thailand in 2009 and moved to Singapore in 2011 to lead Regulatory team in Asia Pacific including Australia/New Zealand, Philippines, Indonesia, Vietnam, Pakistan, and Thailand to ensure regulatory compliances of Monsanto's leading products and technologies to offer as choice for farmers in Asia Pacific region.

In 2019, she decided to utilize her 20 years experiences in both public and private sectors and joined Horticultural Science Society of Thailand to help farmers and promote Thailand Agriculture and volunteer to be Secretary of GAP Network to promote Good Agricultural Practices with Agricultural sectors in Thailand.

